BOMB TERRORISTS' NEST IS DISCOVERED AT GARY, IND.

Plot To Assassinate Gary Mayor Unearthed

Secret Service Bares Name Of Bomb Maker

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Military authorities at Gary, the home of the big steel mills, announced today that they had discovered the plot to assassinate the mayor of Gary, Ind., and the names of the bomb makers who had been arrested in the past year, under arrest within a few hours.

Secret service men said they knew the name, habits and manufacturing methods of the individual who they claimed had made most of these bombs. They mentioned also that they had uncovered a plot to assassinate the mayor of Gary, discovered great stores of dynamite near Gary and traced the printing of red circulars to Indianapolis. They said they had arrested the man who blew up an entrance of the Chicago post office a year ago.

Premature announcement in a Chicago paper this morning of some feature of the bomb story, military authorities at Gary said, had partly thwarted their plans for clearing out what they had reason to believe was one of the central committees of dynamiters in this country. This story said that Alexander Ivanoff had been arrested as the principal bomb maker. Colonel Mapes, commander of the federal troops at Gary, announced this forenoon that Ivanoff had not been arrested, but that authorities were looking for him. Army intelligence department officials said that Ivanoff was the Ginkel bomb maker.

Near the scene of the explosion of one bomb some months ago, these authorities said, was found a scrap of a newspaper printed in Chicago. The paper's entire subscription lists were obtained and the subscribers' names studied. Selections were made among these names as likely to lead to developments. One such name was Alexander Ivanoff, who it was noted, was not only a subscriber, but a contributor of radical articles.

Ivanoff lived in Gary. First, intelligence officers said, it was discovered that he had moved three times in one month, because his neighbors in Gary refused to be scandalized at the number of strange men, each carrying a suitcase, entering Ivanoff's place. Neighbors complained that they were sure he was a bootlegger. Ivanoff finally moved to Miller, a Gary suburb. There a secret service man took him from where he might observe the plant's operations. This federal secret intelligence department man was seen today, disappeared about two weeks ago. The causes of his disappearance and what because of him drew attention to them, his brother officials said. They are exploring a wide search for him.

During the time that Ivanoff was being observed, the intelligence officers said, it was discovered that he was a manufacturer of bombs. Among the bombs, the officers said, were the bombs known throughout the country as the Ginkel bombs. These bombs were sent in packages from Gary to New York.

It was the alleged bomb maker, they said, was an expert electrician.

ALL RUSSIA MUST DRILL

HELSINKI, Oct. 11.—The Soviet government of Russia has ordered the entire population of that country to train immediately for military service, according to reports reaching here from Russian sources. All persons, it is said, must devote all their time which is not occupied with agricultural work to drilling.

Germany And Austria Not Always In Harmony, Admits Ludendorff, Telling Of Austrian Failures

All was not harmony between Germany and Austria in the war—far from it, Austria had no desire to be absorbed in the Empire of the Hohenzollerns and their military men had their own ideas of how to conduct battles, Ludendorff, in his blunt fashion, constantly reveals these differences.

He now came into contact with the Austrian army, to be its savior. Austria as well as Germany had underrated Russia. It had been assumed by both staffs that the Russian army would be as slow and awkward in mobilizing as they were in the Japanese war. So Austria's generals undertook a descent on the fortress chain in Volhynia before Russian armies could get into motion.

The deep race feeling roused by the attack on Serbia, however, brought the Russians flocking to the colors and spread disloyalty among the Slavs in the Austrian army. The ambitious scheme had been upset by Grand Duke Nicholas and the armies of Emperor Joseph were being rapidly backed up against the Carpathians and threatened with annihilation when Ludendorff went to the rescue.

With some of the staff. Once more we had been called upon to work together in an important military position. (The campaign in Poland to rescue the Austrian army from its disaster in Galicia.)

I myself went on the 18th to New Sudek, the headquarters of the Austro-Hungarian army. The journey, it was gloomy weather, was a new experience to me. It was my first visit to Upper Silesia, with its highly developed culture. In Galicia I became acquainted with what is probably the most neglected region in Europe, and gained some idea of Polish backwardness.

The Polish Jew is very backward, even more so than those of his faith and race in Poland proper. This is not altogether the fault of his people, but partly attributable to their government.

In New Sudek I reported myself to the Archduke Frederick, a man with the warm heart of a German and a genuine, soldierly character. I remember him with feelings of the highest esteem. The "brain" of the operations of the Austro-Hungarian army was General von Conrad, a clever and distinguished general of great mental adaptability. He was a strategist with an unusually fertile mind, and always instilled fresh vitality into the Imperial and Royal Army. That must always stand to his credit.

My relations with General von Conrad were always satisfactory, especially at our occasional meetings. I often had the impression that the Austrian liaison officer on my staff did not report facts only, but gossip as well. The liaison officer of an allied power has a particularly important mission. He can easily do harm, and for that reason must be a man of exceptionally strong character.

TWELVE PLANES HAVE COMPLETED THE FIRST LAP OF AIR DERBY

BOMBING PLANE WRECKED
OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 11.—The Martin bombing plane, entry No. 108, piloted by Captain Roy N. Francis, was completely wrecked and the pilot and his three passengers severely shaken up when the plane crashed to the ground, 30 miles west of Omaha, shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. The plane was forced to land during a dense fog and became entangled in telephone wires.

Lieutenant J. T. Johnson, piloting a SE-5, was severely bruised and the axle of his plane was broken when he attempted to make a landing about three miles from Ak-Sar-Ben field at 9:50 this morning, when he lost his way in the dense fog. He later ascended and rode his way to the flying field, landing there at 10:30.

Captain Felix Steiner, and Observer Sergeant H. Mecher, piloting a DeS Haviland, on their way from Des Moines to Omaha, were forced to land in a corn field eight and a half miles southeast of Council Bluffs, Iowa, when they became lost in the fog.

Lieutenant Gish, Major Simon, Major Henry Abner and Major Edwin H. Lyons, all of whom landed in Omaha Monday evening and spent the night here, were being held at the local county station by Lieutenant H. B. Wells, officer in charge, because of the adverse weather conditions prevailing here and also farther west.

WAITING FOR CLEAR WEATHER
BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Major J. P. Bartlett, No. 51, east bound, arrived at 12:15 p. m. He is waiting here for clear weather.

SUFFERED FRACTURED SHOULDER
LINCOLN, Neb., H. J. Meyer, of Cleveland, injured yesterday, when plane No. 37, piloted by Lieutenant H. D. Norris of Washington, D. C., crashed into a hill during a fog near Omaha, Nebraska, suffered a fractured shoulder, according to advice received here today from Lexington, Nebraska.

Meyer was acting as Lieutenant Norris' mechanic when the accident occurred. Lieutenant Norris suffered very slight injury to one of his arms. After the accident both men went to Lexington to await instructions from New York.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Oct. 11.—Lieutenant Edwin W. Maynard, who piloted the trail from the Atlantic to the Pacific in the first lap of the army's transcontinental air race, was prepared to start at 1:12 p. m. today on his return to Minnola, New York, in the same De Haviland airplane in which he made his record-breaking flight. The only new part the machine received was a tire to replace one which blew out when he landed here. The plane was for Lieutenant Maynard's departure was the earliest possible under the rules governing the race.

Six west bound fliers arrived here yesterday, four more, more within a day's flight of their western end, and three others had crossed the western border line of Nebraska and were well within the Rocky mountain country.

Improvement In President's Condition Is Encouraging In Opinion Of The Physicians

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—President Wilson's condition was generally good today, although he did not have a restful night, according to the bulletin issued by his physicians this morning.

The bulletin issued at 12:15 p. m. follows: "The president did not have a restful night last night. His restlessness was caused by a swelling of the prostate gland, a condition from which he has suffered in the past and which has been intensified more or less by his lying in bed. His general condition, however, is good. As noted yesterday, his temperature, pulse, respiration, heart action, and blood pressure are normal."

(Signed) "GRAYSON, "RUFFIN, "STIFF"

Hear Admiral Grayson said the swelling of the prostate gland was quite common and no importance should be attached to it. It is expected that Dr. Grayson will, however, call in a specialist in order that the president may be made more comfortable.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—The daily improvement in President Wilson's condition, while not fully reflected in the daily White House bulletins, is quite encouraging in the opinion of his physicians.

This view of the situation was expressed last night by Rear Admiral Grayson, the president's personal physician, in giving out the regular night bulletin, which said that Mr. Wilson's condition was "about the same."

Dr. Grayson in an oral statement accompanying the formal announcement indicated that the change for the better was very apparent to the patients' attending physicians, yet to the average man, the brief White House announcements seemingly indicated nothing but an improvement or a change for the worse.

The cabinet was to meet at the White House today as usual. There was no indication as to the nature of matters coming before the meeting. Secretary Lansing was to preside.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—A plan for settlement of all industrial disputes by a joint committee, representing employers, union workers and employees remaining at work, was proposed to the national industrial conference today by Thomas L. Chauncey, public representative, as a substitute for labor's resolution calling for arbitration of the steel strike.

The conference adjourned in conference following the proposal.

Mr. Chauncey's proposal did not specifically mention the steel strike and it met with instant objection from Samuel Gompers, chairman of the labor group, who sought to block its consideration. When Chairman Lane called for a vote Mr. Gompers said that labor representatives were not ready to make a decision and the conference adjourned for 20 minutes so the three groups might reach a decision on the resolution.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—A resolution by Frederick P. Fish, of Boston, chairman of the National Industrial Conference Board, assuring unorganized labor not represented in the meeting, that the conference would not neglect its interest, was adopted.

The general committee recommended that three representatives of nine members each, three from each group, be appointed to consider the following subjects: Unemployment, unemployment insurance and immigration; hours of labor, wages and women and children in industry, and production and industrial and vocational training.

WILL RULE ON THESE
The general committee retained under its own jurisdiction the following subjects: Collective bargaining, mediation, conciliation and arbitration and freedom of contract.

Examiner Makes Report On The Sinking Fund Department

The following is the first installment of the state examiner's report on the sinking fund department:

SINKING FUND DEPARTMENT

From March 1 to December 31, 1917, George E. Kricker, President; Frank H. Damon, Vice President; Frank H. Kellogg, Robert G. Bryan, Secretary; and Louis A. Zuckerman, Treasurer, were the members of the sinking fund department.

LOUIS A. ZUCKERMAN, Secretary

January 1, 1918, Den H. Dillon was appointed as a member of the sinking fund department to succeed Arthur H. Damon whose term had expired. The sinking fund department was organized by electing George E. Kricker as president, Frank H. Kellogg as vice president and Louis A. Zuckerman as secretary.

As under the provisions of Section 4509, General Code, in the absence of an ordinance of council creating the position of clerk to the sinking fund department, the auditor becomes the secretary of said board, it is not necessary formally elect said official as secretary.

Inasmuch as the term of the board expires each year we believe it to be in conformity with law, and especially parliamentary usage, for the board to effect an organization annually.

As per the statement of the secretary, the term of the members expires as follows:

Frank H. Kellogg,	January 1, 1919
Robert G. Bryan,	January 1, 1920
George E. Kricker,	January 1, 1917
Den H. Dillon,	January 1, 1922

It would appear that at the expiration of the term of Mr. Kricker, May 1, 1917, no appointment was made by the mayor and that Mr. Kricker continued to serve owing to the fact that no successor was appointed and elected.

It would appear that the board has not availed itself of the authority granted in it through Section 4509, General Code, and passed an ordinance creating the position of clerk to the sinking fund department and fixing the compensation thereof, hence the city auditor acts as secretary of the board. Other than his salary as city auditor, the auditor receives no compensation for his services as secretary of the sinking fund trustees.

The minutes of the proceedings of the trustees indicate sessions held on the following dates: March 23, April 27, May 28, June 23, July 26, August 28, September 21, October 6, 20, November 26, and December 27, 1917; January 14, February 17, March 23, April 27, May 28, June 17, 27, July 1, 25, August 28, September 22, 1918. As per the records there were ten members present at the session of September 21, 1917. The provisions of Section 4509, General Code, require a majority of the whole board to pass upon any question, and no session of the board can be held unless there are three members present. Therefore, transactions at said session were without authority of the board.

The business transacted at the various sessions of the board consisted in the acceptance or rejection of bonds tendered by the city, the issuance of the sale of securities, the ordering of payment of judgments, court costs, and the incidental expenses of the trustees, and the providing for payment of the bonds and interest thereon. In accordance with the action of the trustees was through an agent and any vote with the names of members voting recorded in the journal.

The proper method is in vogue relative to the payment of the bonds and interest of the city. Prior to the maturity of bond issues, and the receipt thereon, the trustees meet and by an aye and nay vote authorize the issue of checks against the sinking fund in favor of the several bond and coupon payments for the amounts of the maturities, the amounts of said checks are charged to the sinking fund account in the treasury and credited to the bond coupon accounts in the local and foreign depositories. The bond and coupon payments are paid by the depositories and the amount thereof is paid to the bond and coupon account with such depositories. With the plan of the Ohio National Bank, Columbus, and Winston, Lauer and Co., bank, monthly statements are rendered by the depositories showing the amount of deposits, redemptions, and monthly balances, and accompanying statements are the bonds and coupons redeemed during the month. The statements excepted, as above noted, render statements at irregular intervals, the statements of the depositories the secretary lists the outstanding maturities representing the amount of the balances as shown by the statements, checks authorized by the trustees are signed by the president and two members of the board, and attested by the secretary. With the checks showing the maturities in the foreign depositories drafts are presented and transmitted to said depositories, exchange at the rate of one-tenth of one per cent being paid the local banks for drafts. At the time the checks are drawn for payment of the maturing indebtedness there is also notation made on a check of the name and number of the bonds and coupons represented by the check together with the amount of same. When redemptions are made they are placed in their respective jackets with notation of date redempted, amount thereof and number outstanding. The blank jackets containing copies that are incomplete as to number are filed separately and from notation of outstanding on such jackets the secretary verifies the correctness of the balance statements of the depositories. The foregoing is the only record of the office of the trustees as to the bond and coupon accounts.

We would suggest that a separate account be kept in a permanent record, each of the depositories at which the bonds and coupons of the city are held accounts being debited with the amounts deposited for redemption credited with the amount of returned redemptions. It is also advisable at the time checks are issued for the payment of bonds and coupons that be prepared a statement showing in detail the kind, the number, the date and the date of maturity of each bond and coupon, said statement to be furnished the depository banks in order that they may be informed as to the maturities represented by the checks. Having this statement before them depository banks will be less likely to make error in the way of the payment of bonds and coupons before maturity or the payment of same from other districts.

Through the establishment of a bond and coupon account the sinking fund department has adopted the only practical method for the payment of the funded indebtedness. We are greatly pleased to note the regularity of procedure in authorization of the payment of the funded obligations of the city. In so far as the state there is an utter disregard of law as to the payment of funded indebtedness and it is indeed a pleasure to find a city that observes the statutory provision in relation to the liquidation of its indebtedness, and that there may be no departure from the method in vogue and that there may be a prompt adoption of the suggestions above noted.

BOND AND COUPON MATURITIES

The bond register of the sinking fund trustees indicates that bond issues of the city not only mature on the first day of each month in the year but that several issues mature on various days in the month.

There is no reason for a multiplicity of maturing dates. Most of the issues of the state have established a uniform maturing date for all bond issues, the first day of March and September or April and October. In certain cases one maturing date is established for bonds, the coupons, if interest is to be paid semi-annually, following the same date at six months subsequent, is no less to the city in the disposal of its bonds by the adoption of a uniform maturing date as the city is fully reimbursed through the accrued interest paid from the purchaser. While the maturing dates of the existing bond issues cannot be changed yet, if council establishes a uniform maturing date for all issues, it will have been paid and practically, uniformly will have been established. By the establishment of a uniform maturing date the work of the department will be greatly lessened as under such conditions the trustees need not meet semi-annually in order to legally authorize the payment of the city's bonded obligations.

In this connection we would recommend that the trustees transmit an communication to council requesting that body to honor their duty and establish a uniform date for the maturity of all bond issues.

We are pleased to note that, with few exceptions, all bond issues have been made to mature serially. This is a laudable and essential condition for the trustees to make provision for the liquidation of all the bonds of the issue to mature at the same time.

GLASSES AS A LAST RESORT

PRIDE causes too many people to leave the help of glasses until they are compelled to get them. This is a mistake. When you have a pair of glasses, you will look at the subject in a different light. We cannot too strongly urge people to wear glasses to get them at once.

THE MOVIES

Anna Stewart in "The Kingdom of Dreams" at Lyric Theatre.

How Anna Stewart's idealistic conception of life in the great cities was sent crashing on the rocks of a harsh reality is the theme of "The Kingdom of Dreams" starring Anna Stewart, and which will be seen at the Lyric Theatre tonight and tomorrow.

As a young girl living with her invalid father in a small western town, Anna frequently looked for the wonders and beauties of the large cities. And, as a reward for that longing, it seemed, an opportunity came to her to visit her father. She was to be a private secretary to James Warren, president Wall Street banker.

Once in the grasp of Warren, Anna's share of the city was not to be a pleasant one.

How this marriage came into being is a story of dream and reality. The play is a story of a girl who is sent to New York to be a private secretary to a Wall Street banker. She is a young girl living with her invalid father in a small western town. Anna frequently looked for the wonders and beauties of the large cities. And, as a reward for that longing, it seemed, an opportunity came to her to visit her father. She was to be a private secretary to James Warren, president Wall Street banker.

A recent picture that has played every city with marked success. The play resembles "The Birth of a Nation" in both its lines and its theme. "The Birth of a Nation" is the picture of the well-known novel, "The Three Christs", and it portrays the character of the young architect who enlists with the marines and by virtue of hard experience, learns to conquer the "three Christs" which his mother considers things in his character—his class prejudice, his dislike for the race, and his dislike for the race. How this theme is carried out and the events of the late war, which by one of the prettiest and fiercest romances ever depicted, is told in a way that will make you remember this play forever. Don't forget, tomorrow night.

ANXIOUS.

No, it is not the proper thing to do—let him take care of his own hat or sit on it.

Dear Dolly—Would you please answer this question for me. What is the thirtieth anniversary?

WANT-TO-KNOW. The thirtieth anniversary is known as the pearl anniversary, the bride and groom of thirty years being the recipients of gifts in pearls, mother of pearl, etc.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a poor woman who has to work to support myself and little children. I am going to the free employment office and get work every day so that my children always had enough to eat and keep them warm, but since they had to close the office I do not know where to go to get work. I read advertisements, but when I get there they tell me someone is doing it and I waste my day walking around but do not find work. Now Dolly, can you tell me where I can go where they will have a list of jobs like they did at the employment office? I did like to go there as they were as nice to me as if I were rich and they got me jobs always. Dolly don't you think there should be an employment office in town where poor folks could find work so they would not have to do anything. I want to earn my own living so I will not have to ask the city to help me and my babies. If I have work every day I can pay for everything, but if I don't I will be in a tight place. Do you think the good people of Portsmouth will let the employment office stay closed when we poor people need it so much?

WORKING LADY. You may find help by applying at the Bureau of Community Service, Seventh floor, First National Bank building. The Free Employment Bureau did a lot of good work here and it is to be hoped something similar will be arranged to take its place.

Dear Miss Wise—I do not know whether it is customary for a business man to write anything for your column or not but I would like to say a few words to the citizens of Portsmouth concerning the employment work of this city.

I think an employment office is as essential to this city as the Bureau of Community Service is, and you know we would not do without that now. If we had an employment office the Bureau would not be called upon for so much help, as this has been shown before and since the employment office has been opened. It is better to have a place where people can apply for work and find it than to have them go from place to place applying for it and then not finding it become discouraged and stop looking for anything and finally become dependent upon the city. Have you been bothered with many transients since the employment office was opened? No, because such men would go to the employment office and get a short job where they could get a little money, enough to pay for their meals, and then go their way without asking aid from anyone. Isn't it better to make a living than to ask for charity?

Now, on the other hand wasn't it a great deal easier on us to call the employment office and leave our order for so many than than to have to go out on the streets and look for them, as I have had to do since the office closed. Of course I sometimes did not get all the men asked for but that was no fault of the employment office, for, as sometimes the men did not care for that kind of work or maybe someone else was paying more money for the same kind of help, but I have been greatly benefited by the office both in receiving men for my work and women to help my wife, and it has all been free. The Supt. of the Employment Office has always treated everyone fair and square, both the employers and laborers, and I am sure that everyone thanks him for his just treatment.

Now, the question is, would it be possible for the people of this city to support an employment office in the same way we do the Bureau of Community Service? I would be willing to do my part for the help I have and would receive therefrom.

A BUSINESS MAN. The sure this matter might be a good one to place before the Business Men's Association. I don't see how the town is going to do without the Free Employment Bureau.

We Never Did---

Put up with ordinary standards in anything that Anderson's store carries, and it's too late to begin, even though some things are scarce, high or hard to get.

It's true there is a shortage in woollens for men's suits and coats, but as long as there is any at all (and there surely is now) we are going to get it for our customers or we won't get any. It's high standard with us or none at all.

But what we started out to say is that we have the swellest line of samples to show you that you have ever seen. You would never know from the great line-up that good woollens were scarce, nor from the prices asked you would hardly know they had advanced.

Any number of patterns for you to choose from at prices ranging from $30 to $60 for a suit.

Will you please consider this a personal invitation to come in and see.

Be Prepared For Influenza Cut This Out

Many medical men say you will probably have another epidemic this fall. Let us all keep and pray we will not. But at the same time let us be well prepared.

The flu as it is called, usually starts with a cold and headache in the chest. If you even suspect there is a chance that you may be getting influenza take a good dose of Iodoquinol, such as Dr. Carr's I. & D. or Cherry-Rose and send for your physician. While you are waiting for the doctor rub Iodoquinol Massage on throat and chest.

Take it on freely and never mind if it does feel good and hot. It cannot blister even the tenderest skin.

But don't stop at throat and chest; get someone to rub the remedy of Iodoquinol over your entire body and especially between the shoulder blades.

This is one of the most reliable remedies you can take against influenza, which often quickly follows the flu and is just what the doctor tries hard to prevent.

You can get Carr's Iodoquinol for 25 and 50 cents in yellow boxes all ready for use at any drug store.

Remember it is made of real yellow mustard. Use it for sore throat, coughs, chest colds, influenza, bronchitis, pneumonia and all aches and pains.

DEADLOCK IN PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

DEADLOCK IN PITTSBURGH—PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 14.—The steel strike situation in the Pittsburgh district remained deadlocked today, this condition being emphasized by the fact that statements from both the unions and the employers spoke in the main of activities outside the district, and make only slight mention of the walk-out in this region. The situation continued quiet today.

According to the latest statement from the Carnegie Steel Company, largest subsidiary of the United Steel Corporation, that concern is steadily returning to normal conditions with 75 per cent of its flat business operating and an average of about 50 per cent returning to work daily.

From strike local papers come the statement that few, if any, men have returned to work in the Pittsburgh district recently. As yet conditions in other steel centers in the country, union leaders said, they were well pleased with the strike, with the exception of the fact that in New York, Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia were slow.

MORE MEN TO START—An estimated 10,000 men are expected to start work in the Pittsburgh district today, according to the Carnegie Steel Company. This would be a significant increase from the 5,000 men who were working yesterday.

The Carnegie Steel Company is expected to start work today, according to the Pittsburgh Courier. This would be a significant increase from the 5,000 men who were working yesterday.

The HOOVER ELECTRIC SUCTION SWEEPER

Here's a Tip On Hoovers

There are no doubt, many persons who are going to present mother, or wife with a Hoover Sweeper for Christmas. That's inevitable. But listen. The price of Hoovers will advance $7.50 on November 1st. If you want until after November 1st to purchase your Hoover you will lose $7.50 that you could save by buying now.

Well, but you say you don't want to get it now. Perhaps you don't. But if you will give us the opportunity NOW, while we still have some of the Hoovers at the old price, we will reserve your one of these. You now have on hand, until Christmas. But you must come in now, if you wish to save $7.50 for you.

According to reports of the Hoover, you can illustrate all you wish with a picture of electric suction sweeper, but you will eventually do what most people do, buy the Hoover.

We have a representative from the Hoover factory, who will show you the advantages of the Hoover. He will bring a Hoover to your home and demonstrate it if you wish to see it. No obligation.

THE MALIGNER ALWAYS BUSY

SOME men like to lie and traduce and you find such sort plentiful in politics and sport. Here are a few of the lies and traducement that have swept over to national and even some to international circulation within the immediate past.

Possibly the most contemptible of all these, because it was made in the vehicle of a nasty partisan attack, was fathered in congress by a chap named Rodenberg, from Illinois. Under the guise of patriotism and the constitution he has introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of the presents received by President Wilson, reciting that it had been stated he had, contrary to the constitution, received gifts from princes, kings, potentates and pontiffs amounting to millions of dollars. The president immediately in response to the libel had submitted a list of all he had received. His "numerous and priceless gifts" consisted of three or four antique blunderbusses from the King of Italy, some photographs from King George of England and a small statuette from the Pope of Rome. Before accepting them the President took the precaution of having the opinion of the secretary of state and the attorney general that it would not be unlawful or improper in him to do so.

The one of international importance was that the American army had burned and destroyed millions of dollars worth of valuable stores and had sacrificed millions in France in the sale of surplus supplies. The Paris version was that the French government had bought these stores at fabulous prices and was burning up millions of them. The French government took notice of the scandal and issues a denial in which it states, that while it could not take advantage of an ally that had so generously and gallantly fought with Frenchmen, by offering a shameful price for stores it could not move, it did buy American supplies at a fair and honest figure and none were destroyed. So that is disposed of from this side.

Two others have to do with our national sport and they disprove one another, and are against human nature. The first starts in Cincinnati with the claim that the Reds "threw" the fifth game they seemingly had won, in order to swell the gate receipts with another game. That is preposterous in the first place, because the players did not share in receipts either in the game with which the story started, nor in subsequent ones. In the second, it would have been sheer folly in them to throw away any game because that may have meant the loss of the big end of the players' share of the gate receipts and also more to be considered, the salary raise they could expect with the winning of the championship.

The other story started in Chicago and was just the reverse. It was the White Sox had "thrown" away wilfully all their chances to win. That is absurd on the face of it, because it would have cost them about $2,000 apiece in the players' share of the gate receipts and also sacrificed their prestige, which meant more salary.

Sensibly the Cincinnati management takes no notice of fool talk by cheap sports, but Manager Combsky is so heated up by it that he furiously makes offer of $20,000 to any person who will show him any throw down by any player.

A POPULAR PROPOSAL

THE federal government taxes, income and impost, will aggregate full five billion dollars. The chamber of commerce for the state of New York declares these are too much and insists the government expenditures should be cut to two billion, even hundred million dollars.

The proposition is not popular, but it is plausible and sound, because it would mean reducing the burden of taxation on the present generation over half.

There should be no great haste to wipe out the national debt, created by exigencies of war. What was fought for and won is as much to the benefit of posterity as to the people of the present and upon it should fall a share of paying the obligations incurred.

It would not be unfair to descend to it the greater share because the living "bore the heat and burden of the day." Theirs was the denial, the sacrifice, the work and the incidental burdens.

Besides five billion dollars annually is too severe a strain upon the business and trade of the country. A clog like that holds back the wheels of progress and prevents that full readjustment without which our descendants can not reap the full blessings of victory won for them by their fathers. Truly is this a great country, a rich country, but greatness and riches have their limitations. The heart and substance can not be sucked from them and they still remain in vigor. No nation can long stand up under a tax of fifty dollars yearly upon every man, woman and child in it.

THE MECCA OF THEM ALL

OF the formation of societies for the betterment of the world and promoting the welfare of man there seems to be no end, and without exception each hurries to the newspaper to exploit it, to make known to the earth its mission and aspirations, incidentally starting the coin to flowing.

Here is the newest one, "American Committee of Siberian Agricultural Co-operative Unions" and because it appears a bit different, that isn't it conceals adroitly its financial ends, if any, we do it in the favor of letting so much as its name break into these columns.

This society of the elongated nomenclature professes to be for no other purpose than to give out true information about Russia and Siberia, with the prime purpose of giving out information that will go to creating trade between the United States and Siberia especially.

As a beginning it assures us that Siberia is not all a bleak and inhospitable land, the hidden and forbidden home solely of criminals and convicts. It is a region of vast area and varied climate, with pregnant stores of incalculable wealth, crops of various sorts, coal, iron and more precious metals, needing but capital to flow forth their tide of plenty and prosperity to all who come in touch therewith.

Our vanity is touched with the expression that the American Laions is composed of many thousands of Siberian farmers, who love America above all and are most anxious to trade with her. Other nations are hasting to secure her trade and she bids us haste, as do they that the fruitful opportunity may not be allowed to slip by us before it is everlastingly too late.

SHE MARRIED AN AVERAGE MAN

I have been thinking for days about "Who said anything about Jim?" What Mrs. Hast said of marriage, called Athena Hast. "It's no infernal thing," she said, "it's just a thing like anything else. You have your own quarters and her own—this is the idea. You've a right to have your own life. They often don't—something to occupy your time, haven't they for months. And they once don't you?"

A whole summer in a Scotch village, each occupying a separate little house. She said the twosome nearly got themselves to death, but that it was "better to be thought crazy than to go crazy, getting on each other's nerves and interfering with each other's work."

Work! I wish I had some sort of work. I have nothing to do that interests me from 10 in the morning till nearly 5 except reading, and I can't read all the time.

I suppose I could do the Lady Hamilton to the families of the workmen in the shops where Jim is employed. But he always discourages anything of that sort, saying "I have enough to do to attend to my house and keep myself pretty. What an aim!"

Mrs. Hast spoke of my pretences, too. Only she said it was a pity I didn't use it to better advantage.

"You should have work and friends and ambition, my dear," she asserted in her positive, decisive way. "Wait till you come to New York. I'll introduce you to a lot of nice people, women and men who are interested in things worth while, not just office and kitchen and nursery. I know an artist who will simply fall off his perch in this eagerness to paint you. And a couple of claps who write books and play the violin. You're musical—wouldn't you have a splendid time with them? I'll invite you to luncheon to meet them as soon as you get to New York."

"But—Jim couldn't very well come to luncheon," I ventured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Christopher Street is down near the Jerryboot landing, and most of the folk make their living along the river-front. It is a place of its own and the language is the patois of the docks. The men are great physical builds, raw-boned and square-shouldered, and many of them have been around the world.

HARRY A. WHEELER

Harry A. Wheeler, vice president of the Union Trust company of Chicago, chairman of the Chicago Library, and a member of the Chicago postal commission, has been chosen by the city players who are attending the great industrial conference at Washington to be the chairman of the Chicago group throughout the sessions of this most important conference.

H.A. WHEELER

The choice of Wheeler for this post is believed to be particularly happy, for the reason that he is a strong believer in the doctrine that through a better understanding of labor difficulties are cleared away. He is for frank discussion and sifting out of facts and his attitude coincides with one of the purposes of the conference, to take up the problem in a candid and thorough manner, so that each side will better comprehend difficulties the other has to contend with.

Wheeler was born in Brooklyn, New York, fifty four years ago, and has been prominent in Chicago banking circles since 1891. Before taking his present position as vice president of the Union Trust company of Chicago in 1910, Wheeler for five years was president of the Chicago Credit Clearing House. He was the first president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, 1912-1913, and his organizing ability did much toward starting the chamber on its career of success. In 1911 he declined an appointment on the federal reserve board.

not so far away. The stewardess wants his woman to stay home, and about her only announced in the movie.

Christopher Street has evoked the most neighborly movie in the world, perhaps. There is a story, shabby little movie place in the heart of one of the poorest blocks. The manager is a genius. Suddenly the progress of the slapstick comedy reel is interrupted.

The lane is broken by a patch of static white. And across this shining blank appears these words, in hasty script:

"Mrs. Sol Smith—The woman is at your house."

A third woman rises from her seat and hurries up the aisle and out to her flat to receive the loss. Again there will be a message with a picture to illustrate it. A baby's head and the cryptic words:

"Mrs. Lyvinski—Outside."

It means that baby Lyvinski is unmanageable. Nobody pays any attention to the interruptions. Even the other night the following message did nothing but stir a slight ripple of surprise:

"Erick Stengard—You have just been made the proud father of a son, to home." Erick, who was laughing heartily at a fat man getting a mustard pie in the eye, sobered down and lumbered out. And one learns from the ancient charter that Erick is already the father of nine.

"Another, oh Erick," as he goes out, and Erick has the same bashful smile of happiness that a proud papa has for the first time.

There is a man in our town, whose business it is to measure several million blades of grass. No blade may be more than two inches long. His name is Henry Fabian and he is the veteran groundskeeper at the 13th Grounds.

Mrs. Al. Freund is seriously ill at her home on Twelfth street.
